

Nintendo going wireless in November

October 6 2005

Nintendo will launch a free WiFi game service next month, just in time for Christmas.

The games will be compatible with existing WiFi networks and will also have an optional USB connection device that plugs into PC ports.

The service will begin Nov. 14 with the release of Mario Kart DS and Tony Hawk's American Sk8land. Other games are slated for release in December and early 2006.

The product requires a high-speed Internet connection and will not work on dialup.

Copyright 2005 by United Press International

Citation: Nintendo going wireless in November (2005, October 6) retrieved 26 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2005-10-nintendo-wireless-november.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--