

Opera browser used in T-Mobile N70 phones

October 14 2005

Norway's Opera Software will supply browsers for the N70 phones offered under T-Mobile's Web n' Walk marketing effort.

Opera said Friday the browser would give users full wireless access to the Internet, e-mail and instant-messaging services through the N70 phones built by Nokia.

In the name of greater customer productivity, Opera notes that the N70 includes not only Web access but telephony, a 2-megapixel camera and even an FM radio.

The N70 is the third 3G phone in the Walk n' Web line and will be available initially only in the British market.
