

Briefs: EU approves German broadband proposal

December 23 2005

The European Commission Friday approved a proposal by German regulators to open up broadband markets.

The Bundesnetzagentur will allow broadband providers, including very high-speed Internet access providers, to enter the market with their own services into the German market.

The regulator had initially proposed to exclude higher-speed access providers from the market.

Copyright 2005 by United Press International

Citation: Briefs: EU approves German broadband proposal (2005, December 23) retrieved 25 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2005-12-eu-german-broadband.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--