

Prehistoric site found in Yemen

February 10 2008

French archaeologists say they discovered a site in Yemen that dates to the Paleolithic Age.

Yemen's Saba news agency said the team reported unearthed various Stone Age tools at the location in al-Mahweet province.

It took two years to find the site, Saba said, and Yemeni authorities were contacted regarding its protection.

The Paleolithic Age was one of the longest ages in pre-history and was noted as the time of the Neanderthal man and similar cultures.

Copyright 2008 by United Press International

Citation: Prehistoric site found in Yemen (2008, February 10) retrieved 2 May 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2008-02-prehistoric-site-yemen.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--