

Thousands of starfish found dead on beach

March 13 2008

Britain's Environment Agency says thousands of dead starfish were found washed up on a beach at Pegwell Bay.

The starfish covered hundreds of yards of sand on the beach in Kent, The Independent reported Wednesday.

Environment Agency spokesman Ian Humphries said it was likely the starfish had entered shallow waters in search of mussels.

"As they get hungry they get more desperate ... they take risks and come into shallow water where they're more vulnerable." he told the British newspaper.

Copyright 2008 by United Press International

Citation: Thousands of starfish found dead on beach (2008, March 13) retrieved 27 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2008-03-thousands-starfish-dead-beach.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--