

Comcast unveils online viewing of cable TV shows

December 15 2009

(AP) -- Comcast subscribers can now watch several cable TV shows and movies on the Internet.

Viewing is only available to subscribers, and what each customer can watch depends on the cable TV package subscribed. All told, Comcast is making programs available from 27 cable channels including HBO and Cinemax.

Comcast Corp., which announced its online video plans in July, is the first cable company to offer cable TV content online at no additional charge. The nation's largest cable TV operator says customers can watch the shows starting Tuesday.

Previously, shows available for free online are generally limited to ones from the over-the-air broadcasters or older movies.

Other subscription-TV operators with similar plans in the works include Time Warner Cable Inc. and Verizon Communications Inc.

©2009 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Comcast unveils online viewing of cable TV shows (2009, December 15) retrieved 26 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2009-12-comcast-unveils-online-viewing-cable.html>

| |
|---|
| This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private | study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
|---|