

Privacy watchdog files complaint against Facebook

December 17 2009

(AP) -- A Washington-based privacy advocacy group has filed a complaint against Facebook over the social network's latest privacy changes.

The Electronic Privacy Information Center said Thursday it has asked the Federal Trade Commission to look into the changes Facebook has made to its users' privacy settings.

The changes, unveiled last week, include treating users' names, profile photo, gender and other data as publicly available information.

The group, EPIC, says the changes diminish user privacy by disclosing personal information to the public that was previously restricted.

Facebook says it discussed the changes with regulators, including the FTC, before making them.

©2009 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Privacy watchdog files complaint against Facebook (2009, December 17) retrieved 12 June 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2009-12-privacy-watchdog-complaint-facebook.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--