

Grisham releases 'The Firm,' 22 others as e-books

March 16 2010, By HILLEL ITALIE , AP National Writer

In this Tuesday, Nov. 3, 2009 file photo, author John Grisham is shown in New York. More than a year after reports emerged he would make his books available in electronic format, his publisher made it official Tuesday, March 16, 2010, announcing that all 23 of his works can be purchased as e-texts. (AP Photo/Bebeto Matthews)

(AP) -- Best-selling author John Grisham is finally ready to go digital.

More than a year after reports emerged he would make his books available in electronic format, Random House, Inc. made it official Tuesday, announcing that all 23 of his works can be purchased as e-texts.

"John Grisham is one of the greatest storytellers of all time," Sonny Mehta, chairman and editor-in-chief of the Random House division Knopf Doubleday Publishing Group, said in a statement. "This is one of our most exciting e-book initiatives to date and is certain to usher in a new generation of Grisham readers and e-book adopters."

Grisham, the author of such favorites as "The Firm" and "The Pelican Brief," has expressed mixed feelings about e-books and the quickly growing market, currently estimated at around 3 percent to 5 percent of total sales. In an interview with the "Today" show last fall, he worried that if e-books really caught on "then you're going to wipe out tons of bookstores and publishers and we're going to buy it all online."

"I'm probably going to be all right," he said, "but the aspiring writers are going to have a very hard time getting published."

©2010 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Grisham releases 'The Firm,' 22 others as e-books (2010, March 16) retrieved 19 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2010-03-grisham-firm-e-books.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--