

Sony's Gran Turismo 5 revs up for November launch

June 16 2010

Visitors enjoy playing Sony Computer Entertainment's latest driving video game "Gran Turismo 5", with a Nissan Skyline GTR sports car in the display. Sony Computer Entertainment said Wednesday it will launch the latest version of its blockbuster video game Gran Turismo 5 in November, after earlier delaying its release.

Sony Computer Entertainment said Wednesday it will launch the latest version of its blockbuster video game Gran Turismo 5 in November, after earlier delaying its release.

Gran Turismo 5, a driving simulator for the PlayStation 3 game console, is now set to hit North American markets on November 2. It will be released in Japan the same month but no specific date has been set.

The latest version also comes in a three dimensional format and will be playable on 3D television screens, a company spokesman said.

The popular video game was originally set for release in March, but in January Sony postponed the launch indefinitely, citing production-related factors.

The highly acclaimed Gran Turismo series has sold more than 55 million units worldwide since its first release in 1997, the company said.

The last major instalment of the series hit the market in December 2007.

(c) 2010 AFP

Citation: Sony's Gran Turismo 5 revs up for November launch (2010, June 16) retrieved 26 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2010-06-sony-gran-turismo-revs-november.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.