

Google pays tribute to Flintstones

September 30 2010

Google Search I'm Feeling Lucky

The front page of Google.com as the US-based search engine pays tribute to the Flintstones, devoting the celebrated logo on its home page to Fred, Wilma, Barney and Betty on their 50th anniversary.

Google paid tribute to the Flintstones on Thursday, devoting the celebrated logo on its home page to Fred, Wilma, Barney and Betty on their 50th anniversary.

The colorful logo at Google.com features the Flintstones characters spelling out the word "Google."

Created by William Hanna and Joseph Barbera, the Flintstones first aired on the ABC television network in 1960.

The Mountain View, California-based Google frequently changes the logo at Google.com to mark anniversaries or significant events or pay tribute to artists, scientists, statesmen and others.

(c) 2010 AFP

Citation: Google pays tribute to Flintstones (2010, September 30) retrieved 11 May 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2010-09-google-tribute-flintstones.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.