

Facebook shrinks Web page fonts

November 4 2010

---

Facebook page for its founder Mark Zuckerman is seen in this file photo. Facebook has set some users to squinting by shrinking text size on pages of the world's most popular online social networking service.

Facebook set some users to squinting by shrinking text size on pages of the world's most popular online social networking service.

"We are constantly testing new ways to make the site more efficient for people," a Facebook spokesman said on Wednesday, in response to an AFP inquiry regarding the smaller font at the website.

"We listen to feedback and always try to incorporate it in future product updates, releases and features."

The change was getting harpooned online, with forums featuring playful squawks about making reading tough on the eyes of Facebook fans.

(c) 2010 AFP

Citation: Facebook shrinks Web page fonts (2010, November 4) retrieved 2 May 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2010-11-facebook-web-page-fonts.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.