

Google says 'I do' to wedding planning

February 11 2011

A couple holds hands showing their wedding rings in Manila 2010. Google launched a new site, google.com/weddings, this week offering its free tools and products to couples preparing to tie the knot.

Google is getting into wedding planning.

The Internet search giant launched a new site, google.com/weddings, this week offering its free tools and products to couples preparing to tie the knot.

Google Sites allows a couple to create a website featuring information about the bride and groom, the ceremony, directions, nearby hotels, an RSVP list and a gift registry.

Google Docs offers wedding planning tools including a guest list, seating chart, reception menu, budget planner and more.

Photographs can be saved and shared online using Picasa.

Google said it had enlisted a wedding planner to help design the new site.

(c) 2011 AFP

Citation: Google says 'I do' to wedding planning (2011, February 11) retrieved 26 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2011-02-google.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.