

Apple considering Hulu bid

July 22 2011, By RACHEL METZ , AP Technology Writer

Apple is looking into a possible acquisition of video-streaming site Hulu, The Wall Street Journal reported, citing an unnamed source familiar with the matter.

Apple Inc. is in talks to potentially bid for video-streaming service Hulu, according to a person close to the situation.

The person spoke on condition of anonymity because they are not authorized to talk about the matter.

An acquisition of Hulu could bolster Apple's iTunes store, which provides videos users can rent or buy, and help it compete with Netflix Inc. Hulu offers a subscription streaming service. It also brings in revenue from ads that accompany content it streams to users free-of-charge.

Hulu, whose owners include The Walt Disney Co., News Corp. and Comcast Corp., started presenting its financial information to interested bidders late last month, after an unsolicited offer prompted its board to look for other offers.

Apple's interest in Hulu was reported earlier by Bloomberg News.

©2011 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Apple considering Hulu bid (2011, July 22) retrieved 15 May 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2011-07-apple-hulu.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.