

Oracle to buy Acme Packet for about $2.1B

February 4 2013

Oracle is buying the network gear company Acme Packet for about $2.1 billion.

The software giant is bolstering the communications package it can offer to customers with the acquisition. Acme makes phone and data network equipment that's used by more than 1,900 service providers and enterprises around the world.

Oracle, based in Redwood City, Calif., will pay $29.25 per share for Acme. That represents a 22 percent premium over the Bedford, Mass., company's Friday closing stock price.

Acme's board unanimously approved the acquisition, which is expected to close in the first half of 2013.

Acme shareholders and regulators must still sign off on the deal.

Copyright 2013 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Oracle to buy Acme Packet for about $2.1B (2013, February 4) retrieved 18 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2013-02-oracle-acme-packet-21b.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--