

Comcast to bring online Olympics coverage to TV

January 24 2014, by Ryan Nakashima

---

Over the past few Olympics, NBC has shown more live coverage over the Internet than it has on TV. For the upcoming Winter Games, Comcast's Xfinity TV subscribers will be able to tap the breadth of that online coverage on their big screens.

For the first time, subscribers who use Comcast Corp.'s latest-generation X1 video set-top box will be able to access content that had once been "digital only."

That includes use of the NBC Sports Live Extra app on big-screen TVs. This year, the app will include a buffed-up version of a live program called "Gold Zone." It will cut in and out of medal events and recap highlights. Live streaming of events and other coverage will also be available on the TV through the X1 box.

© 2014 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: Comcast to bring online Olympics coverage to TV (2014, January 24) retrieved 5 May 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2014-01-comcast-online-olympics-coverage-tv.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--