

Adobe's Creative Cloud suffers lengthy outage

May 15 2014

---

Adobe's Creative Cloud software subscription service has been inaccessible for the past day for the 1.8 million designers, Web developers and other creative professionals who pay to use it.

The outage is a black eye for Adobe Systems Inc., which shifted to the online subscription model for distributing its software a year ago. Creative Cloud makes Adobe's software products available through a monthly subscription that starts at $50 for an individual if they sign up for at least a year.

The maker of Photoshop, Illustrated and Acrobat says the outage is preventing users from logging in to its site with their Adobe IDs. Adobe says it is sorry for the delay and it is working to restore the service, although it has not said how long this would take.

© 2014 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: Adobe's Creative Cloud suffers lengthy outage (2014, May 15) retrieved 26 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2014-05-adobe-creative-cloud-lengthy-outage.html>

|  |
|--|
| This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only. |
|--|