

Brazil cracks 'biggest' Amazon deforestation gang

August 28 2014

In this file aerial photo, deforestation area is clearly visible in Para state, northern Brazil, on August 9, 2013

Police in Brazil have broken up an Amazon deforestation gang considered the worst currently active, officials said.

The gang would invade public land in northern Para state, burn down forest, divided the land into parcels and sell them, federal police said in a statement, released Wednesday.

The group is responsible for environmental crimes to the tune of $230 million, said the Brazilian Environmental Institute.

There was no word on how many people were arrested.

"The suspects are considered the greatest destroyers of the Brazilian Amazon currently active," the institute said.

They should be charged with invading public land, environmental crimes, forgery, criminal association and money laundering, it added.

Arrest orders are being served in the states of Sao Paulo, Parana and Mato Grosso, police said.

If convicted, the suspects face more than 50 years in prison.

© 2014 AFP

Citation: Brazil cracks 'biggest' Amazon deforestation gang (2014, August 28) retrieved 20 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2014-08-brazil-biggest-amazon-deforestation-gang.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--