

Pew poll: A quarter of blacks have been harassed online

July 26 2017

A new study says African-American adults are facing more harassment online than other races and ethnicities in the United States.

A recently released Pew Research Center survey says 25 percent of African-Americans adults—or 1 in 4—have faced some sort of harassment online based on race or ethnicity.

Only 10 percent of Hispanics and 3 percent of whites say they have faced online harassment.

Fifty-nine percent of black internet users—or nearly 3 out of every 5—say they have experienced some kind of online harassment, compared with 48 percent of Hispanics and 41 percent of whites.

Nearly 2 out of 5 black internet users—or 38 percent—say they are called offensive names.

© 2017 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: Pew poll: A quarter of blacks have been harassed online (2017, July 26) retrieved 24 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2017-07-pew-poll-quarter-blacks-online.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--