

First female gamers qualify for NBA 2K League draft pool

March 4 2019, by Jake Seiner

Two female gamers have been invited to attend this year's NBA 2K League draft, the first time women will be included in the draft pool.

Chiquita Evans from Kentucky and Brianna Novin from New Jersey qualified for the esports draft through the league's online combine. They are both expected to be at Barclays Center for the event Tuesday night.

The 2K League is entering its second season and did not have any female players in its inaugural year. Before last season's draft, NBA Commissioner Adam Silver called the lack of gender diversity "a disappointment for all of us so far."

Women have had difficulty breaking into professional esports. Among the most popular circuits, League of Legends Championship Series and the Overwatch League have each had just one female player.

© 2019 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: First female gamers qualify for NBA 2K League draft pool (2019, March 4) retrieved 9 April 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2019-03-female-gamers-nba-2k-league.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--