

Sundance screens short films on YouTube

January 18 2013

A sign is seen at the 2013 Sundance Film Festival on January 16, 2013 in Park City, Utah. YouTube on Friday began online screenings of a selection of short films being showcased at the film festival underway at an enclave in the mountains of Utah.

YouTube on Friday began online screenings of a selection of short films being showcased at the Sundance Film Festival underway in an enclave in the mountains of Utah.

A Screening Room channel hosted by the Sundance Institute features 12 of the 64 short films slated to debut at the festival, YouTube entertainment marketing team member Raymond Braun said in a blog post.

"Sundance is known for its diverse range of films, and with everything from trippy cats and zombies to a rooster king and an ambitious rodeo cowboy," Braun said. "The Screening Room shorts are no exception."

The Sundance Institute will continue to curate the Screen Room channel after the festival ends January 27, according to the Google-owned online video sharing service.

(c) 2013 AFP

Citation: Sundance screens short films on YouTube (2013, January 18) retrieved 19 May 2024 from <https://phys.org/news/2013-01-sundance-screens-short-youtube.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.